

Congressional Leaders Back Ike on Berlin

United Support Given Firm Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower gave congressional leaders of both parties a 90-minute fill-in on the Berlin crisis today and received a pledge of united support for his firm stand.

"The upshot is that we are united," Speaker Sam Rayburn said after the White House conference. "We don't have parties in this thing."

"WE THINK WITH the President that we must be firm and remain so," Rayburn said. Rayburn, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck conferred with the President.

Joining in Rayburn's comments, Halleck said that while this nation is going to remain firm in the Berlin dispute, "every honorable avenue for peace will be explored."

JOHNSON SAID that "it would be foolish to pretend that we do not regard it (the Berlin situation) as a matter of concern."

"I think we should say in language that all will understand that the Communists will discover that this country and its free allies are determined to preserve the free world," Johnson said.

He said there is "no thought of yielding to pressure" but that his country is willing to negotiate with the Soviet Union about the future of Germany.

EISENHOWER CONFERRED with the congressional chieftains after the White House announced that he and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan would meet here March 20 to discuss the Berlin problem.

Dickson said the President and four leaders took "a common and unified position."

Rayburn said there was no administration request for congressional action and that he did not think the House would want to take any.

RAYBURN WAS asked if the reference to a firm stand meant being firm toward Russia or toward U.S. allies.

"Firm all around," he replied. He said the President had explained many times what the administration meant by firmness in the Berlin dispute.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty earlier said the British leader wanted to report to the President on his recent Moscow talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

THE TWO FREE World leaders are faced with reconciling their differing views on long-range strategy for dealing with Khrushchev. The U.S. and Britain are in accord on basic issues.

Hagerty said Macmillan had accepted Eisenhower's invitation to fly here. He said the Prime Minister and his foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, would arrive March 19. The talks, Hagerty said, would last "a few days."

Russ Attack Would Fail, Says McElroy

Secretary Defends
Troop Cuts, Sees
'No Limited War'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy believes any attempt by Russia to launch a sneak attack on the free world would be doomed to failure.

McElroy told a news conference late Thursday that it would be "almost impossible" to carry out the necessary massive preparations and launch a simultaneous attack on thousands of targets without being detected.

HE SAID THIS element of protection against surprise attack would hold into the foreseeable future.

The defense secretary also warned that if the Soviets start hostilities in the West Berlin area they could be triggering World War III.

McElroy made it plain that he did not at this moment expect war over Berlin. In fact, he said the situation there was not now as lethal as some previous crises faced during the cold war.

BUT HE SAID that Berlin was "potentially very inflammatory" just as Quemoy Island and the Middle East were last year.

His warning about global war came when he was asked why the United States continues its military manpower cuts in the face of a looming military crisis.

In measured tone, the secretary stated that "it has been clearly understood as the policy of this government not to regard a limited war as a possibility in the NATO area."

IT WAS "EXTREMELY doubtful" that there could be a limited war in the Berlin area, he said, and so "large numbers" of ground forces would not be required.

"I don't see how you could avoid involving the Russian forces" if conflict broke out in West Berlin and in surrounding East Germany, he said.

Fred A. Stone, the last of the famous pair of Cunningham and Stone, died this morning at his Toluca Lake home in North Hollywood. He was 87.

Seriously ill for the past several years, Stone is survived by three daughters, Dorothy Stone, actress, who performed in the Palm Springs Playhouse production of "Not in the Boot" earlier this season; Paula Stone, a producer now in London with the production of "Top Banana" and Carol Stone, also an actress, who was at her father's home at the time of the death.

All arrangements are pending.

PLAYHOUSE TO GIVE 'ANNE FRANK DIARY' MATINEE TOMORROW

A special matinee performance of "The Diary of Anne Frank" — with students admitted for $1 — will be given at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, in the Palm Springs Playhouse. Director Michael Ferrall announced today.

The special performance will augment the regular Saturday night performance of the play. Ferrall said that if the matinee proves successful, further Saturday afternoon programming at the special student rate may be added.

The Playhouse discontinued a matinee policy several years ago because of lack of interest, he recalled.

Circus to Give Two Shows Here

Arriving in Palm Springs Saturday under the sponsorship of American Legion Owen Coffman Post 519, the Palm Springs High School football field will be teaming with activity as Weber Bros. Circus comes to town.

With two performances for Palm Springs adults and kids, the Legion will man ticket booths for the shows which will be presented at 2 and 7 p.m.

Local children are invited to come to the circus by local businessmen who are purchasing the tickets for the American Legion benefit. The boys and girls of the eighth grade at Nellie N. Coffman Junior High school are selling tickets on the street and part of the proceeds will be given to the kids for their "pet project."

After the lengthy discussion in Washington, Simpson said that the changes agreed upon by the bureau were the dropping of Indian Cemetery No. 2 — 40 acres at the mouth of Palm Canyon — and an 8-acre trailer park from the tribal reserves.

SIMPSON SAID THAT today the valuation of Indian tribal lands is approximately $13,000,000 and added that in order to equalize allotments to all Indians of the local tribe, the amount of land needed would have to be valued at nearly $49,000,000.

According to the attorney, as long as this factor exists, it will be necessary to write the bill so that all the Indian allotments are equalized "as close as possible" and "close the door on any possible litigation that might come up in the future."

At the time of the celebrated Segundo case — cause of the ruling resulting in the local tribe's equalization decree, the land holdings of local Indians were appraised at between $17,500 and $167,000, but today the top appraisal is $722,000, indicating the great increase in land values in the resort area.

ANOTHER CHANGE that has been more or less agreed upon by the bureau is the slackening of maximum land holding law that affects the local Indians. Where the law before said that no Indian could hold more than 160 acres, the new bill will allow a greater acreage, especially if the land is mountainous and the appraisal values are down.

The amended bill retains certain Agua Caliente Tribal reserves including the canyons, Indian cemetery and the mineral hot springs. The tribe will also retain Section 18, less the allotted holdings in the section, which will be cleared for sale to the city of Palm Springs, upon payment by the city of the appraised value.

Weather
Desert Area Forecast:
Sunny today and Saturday. Little temperature change. Highs today 65-75 upper valleys, 75-80 lower valleys.
Yesterday's high was 76, the low 38.

CHICAGO COUPLE
'CONFIRM' REPORT OF FLYING SAUCER

Reports of a flying saucer "operating" in the Palm Springs area received further confirmation here today when a wintering Chicago couple reported they also spotted the strange craft Wednesday afternoon.

"We were sitting on the green at Desert Suites Hotel," declared Edward R. Conrad, who lives in the Beverly Hills region of South Chicago. "I saw it and pointed it out to my wife."

The object was heading southward over the San Jacinto range, and behaving "in a very erratic manner," Conrad said.

"My wife said it was probably a flying saucer since you have that sort of thing out here," he said.

A former Air Force officer—Ben Romer of Pomona—on a vacation with his wife here, spotted the saucer Wednesday afternoon.

SAUND TO INTRODUCE NEW TRIBAL EQUALIZATION BILL

Rep. Dalip Saund (D-Calif.) is expected to introduce an amended bill soon which will provide for the equalization of allotments on the Agua Caliente Reservation here.

It follows a similar bill introduced in the House of Representatives earlier in this session, and followed the original bill introduced and killed in committee in 1958.

Known as HR 2564, introduced on Jan. 15, 1959, the old bill will be changed only slightly by the one pending.

RAY SIMPSON, attorney for the Agua Caliente Tribal Council, went to Washington, D. C., last week to meet with Congressman Saund and members of the staff of the Bureau of Indian Affairs to talk over possible changes in the proposed bill.

After the lengthy discussion in Washington, Simpson said that the changes agreed upon by the bureau were the dropping of Indian Cemetery No. 2 — 40 acres at the mouth of Palm Canyon — and an 8-acre trailer park from the tribal reserves.

SIMPSON SAID THAT today the valuation of Indian tribal lands is approximately $13,000,000 and added that in order to equalize allotments to all Indians of the local tribe, the amount of land needed would have to be valued at nearly $49,000,000.

Auto Plant Struck by Wild Winds

Storm Moves Into Northeast After
Paralyzing Midwest

United Press International
A windstorm acting like a tornado damaged an auto plant at Monroe, Mich., today and farther west sections of the Midwest struggled to free roads and streets from snowfalls up to 20 inches deep in some areas.

In Iowa, Carolyn Colton, 4, and her father George, 30, suffocated in a snowdrift near Waukegan. Their car stalled and they apparently fell into the drift while trying to reach a farmhouse. Iowa counted 10 dead from auto accidents, slippery roads, or heart attacks brought on by exertion.

TWO DEATHS in Illinois, and one each in Oklahoma and Wisconsin brought the total dead to 14 in the latest of the winter storms. The storm was blowing into the northeastern states with heavy snow warnings for Northern Michigan and parts of Vermont. New Hampshire and Maine.

At Monroe, a 60-foot section of cement block wall and windows were blown from a steel storage building of the Ford parts manufacturing plant. Two roof sections were gone and workers' automobiles parked nearby were damaged. In the main plant 300 persons were at work, but none was hurt.

A WEATHER BUREAU spokesman would not label the storm a tornado but would not rule out the possibility.

Iowa was perhaps the hardest hit of the Midwest states by snow. Driving winds swept snows of up to 16 inches into drifts, and traffic was almost at a standstill throughout the state. Hundreds of schools were closed yesterday and today.

IN WISCONSIN, the State Patrol reported 16 to 20 inches of new snow in the LaCrosse area. Roads were closed in 10 counties.

In the eastern states, heavy rains were reported at many points. At Charleston, S. C., nearly 4 1/2 inches of rain fell Thursday night, bringing the total downpour there to seven inches for the day. Roads in Southern Georgia were washed out by rains.

Exchange Program

Foreign Student
May Come Here

An exchange student from a foreign nation may be enrolled at Palm Springs High School when school recommences in September.

Members of the Student Council at the Village school, meeting with faculty members and a representative of the Foreign Exchange Program, discussed this week the aspects of the program.

INTRODUCED BY Jo Ann Rosin, who has sparked the campaign to bring a foreign student here, Mrs. Jane Hannon, representative of the Foreign Exchange Program told the students and faculty members that:

—The student body would have to foot the cost of bringing the student here, roughly about $650.

—THE STUDENT body will have to provide a suitable home within the community for the student, to reside in — preferably with a family that has high school age children.

The students pledged themselves to work toward realization of the project as quickly as possible with an eye toward bringing the student here for the fall semester.

KHRUSHCHEV LIKES GERMAN GIRLS AT FAIR

LEIPZIG, East Germany. — (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev swept through the East German Trades Fair today with a roving eye for German girls — "pretty, pretty, pretty" — and a series of off the cuff wisecracks.

He drank toasts to Alfred Krupp, the West German industrial magnate, and to Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, and he picked up three bottles of Belgian medicine said to cure "what vodka does to the liver."

HE TRAVELED at a pace that left his aides breathless but found time to call for stepped up trade between Russia and West Germany to invite more Swedes to visit Russia and to plug the merits of plastic bathtubs over rockers.

He told the representative of one big West German iron and steel firm which already is exporting heavily to the Soviet Union, "What you are sending us is not enough; we can buy your entire output of steel tubes."

AT THE BRITISH exhibit, Khrushchev was struck by the good looks of girls at a chemical booth. He asked if they were English. When told they were German, he said, "pretty, pretty, pretty."

Then he turned to John Peel of Britain's Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., and said, "I do not want to offend your national pride but they seem to be better looking than English girls."

AT THE CHEMICALS exhibit Khrushchev praised a plastic bathtub. "You are making plastic bathtubs," he said. "I call that real progress. It is better than making rockers."

ARKANSAS POLICE LAUNCH
Probe Into School Fire

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — State police launched a full-scale probe today of the tragic reform school fire that killed 21 Negro boys trapped behind locked doors.

Gov. Orval Faubus, shaken and angered, charged negligence was responsible for the deaths and ordered state police to "let the chips fall where they may."

He prepared to go before the Arkansas Legislature and ask for an emergency appropriation.

FAUBUS ARRIVED on the scene of the fire Thursday at the Arkansas Negro Boys Industrial School, 12 miles south of Little Rock, in time to watch firemen cool debris that covered a pile of 12 bodies. They were heaped below a window they couldn't open.

Nine other boys were sprawled in ashes that once was a U-shaped brick veneer dormitory building. Faubus was visibly sickened at the sight.

FORTY-SEVEN OTHER boys escaped by kicking out "escape-proof" wire mesh screens and climbing out windows.

"There's absolutely no reason for this to happen the way it did except because of negligence on the part of someone," Faubus said. He said the building had no fire alarm system and no telephone.

At 400,000 Miles
Contact Lost
With Pioneer IV

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America lost contact with its first artificial planet at 7:24 a.m. p.s.t. today, nearly 3 1/2 days and more than 400,000 miles after Pioneer IV was launched toward its orbit around the sun.

The loss of radio contact was reported by the Goldstone tracking station of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in California.

AT THE TIME contact was lost, Pioneer had set a record by flashing radio signals deeper in space than any other manmade object.

The Goldstone scientists calculated that by 8 a.m., 36 minutes after the signal received at 7:24 a.m., the tiny space probe was 416,000 miles from the earth and traveling at 3,940 miles an hour.

GOLDSTONE HAD expected to lose contact much sooner. Scientists said there was a possibility it might pick up additional signals

Teachers Plan Symposium On Teaching Philosophy

Teachers said school district residents will meet Tuesday, March 17, for a symposium on the "philosophy behind teaching and learning."

Led by school district officials, the symposium involves the evaluation and discussion of the teaching philosophy, according to Irving Sussman, head of the high school English department and symposium chairman.

The open meeting will be led by Schools Supt. Dwight Twist, High School Principal Charles Webster and chairman of various school departments.

The symposium is scheduled for 8 p.m., March 17, at the high school music room.

Sussman said the major purpose of the meeting is to permit teachers "to show how teaching embraces far more than the teaching of fundamentals."

The symposium will be primarily concerned with the philosophy behind teaching, evaluating education in terms of human experience and intellectual growth, Sussman said.

"We hope this new venture will re-awaken an interest in the intellectual and philosophical truths so necessary to individual and national progress," he added.

$37,500 Damage Suit Filed

A $37,500 damage suit charging negligence in the performance of Attorney Rumwell with "gross power-of-attorney responsibilities" for a desert mining claim has been scheduled for trial at 9:30 a.m. Monday, in Riverside County Superior Court.

The suit, filed by William L. Ross, of Star Route, Whitewater, charges that Rumwell's "gross negligence" as a licensed attorney caused Ross to lose his claim in the Little San Bernardino foothills behind Thousand Palms.

THE LAWSUIT ASKS $36,500 for the loss of the land, $1,000 more paid in filing his claim, and for the costs of the legal action.

In Indio, Chief Clerk Luke Christianson advised The Desert Sun that while both parties in the trial judge has yet been assigned. The clerk said that either Superior Judge Hilton H. McCabe or Superior Judge Bertram C. Jones will hear the case.

Ross' complaint emanated from a 1956 agreement purportedly made with Rumwell to act as power-of-attorney in regard to the plaintiff's land. Ross subsequently left the territorial limits of the United States, and claims in his action that he believed Rumwell to understand that he had left the complete responsibility for the land with the Palm Springs lawyer.

THE PLAINTIFF said that he received a letter from his home on Oct. 2, 1957, from the U. S. Land Office, telling him that his claim to the land had been rejected. He was also, he alleges, advised that he had until Oct. 25, 1957, to file an appeal of the rejection.

Ross claims in his action that he immediately dispatched the rejection notice to Rumwell—the brief entered in the case maintains that it was mailed on Oct. 2—but that the lawyer failed to appeal and wrote "merely" an ordinary letter to the Land Office.

FURTHER, ROSS contends, Rumwell had no plan for further action, a fact that the plaintiff said he did not discover until his attorney wrote substantially that in a letter on Nov. 18, 1957, 24 days after final date for appeal.

The 74-year-old Ross claims that Rumwell's "negligence" cost him 12 years of work and about $15,000.

"I was in hopes that it (the property) would carry me through in my old age," Ross declared.

Rumwell is being represented in the action by his legal partner Dwain Clark, also a Village attorney.

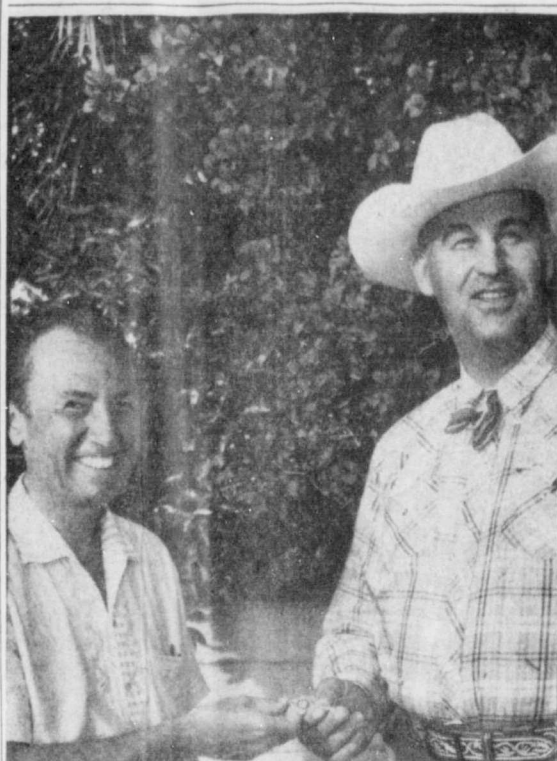

Ross, who is representing himself, declared that he couldn't find any attorney willing to "handle a case against another lawyer."

Blind Mother

BOSTON (UPI) — Though totally blind, Mrs. Aldo Marchisio is raising her five children unassisted.

Her husband, who is 90 per cent blind, works for the State Division of the Blind, tuning and repairing pianos, and often is out of town for a week at a time.

Mrs. Marchisio does all her own housework — and has enough energy left at night to read a bedtime story in Braille to her children, Allison, 11, Peter, 8, Paul, 6, Caroline, 9 and Rosemarie, 3.

Board to Hold Hearings In Minimum Square Footage

The Board of Supervisors decided this week that any hearing they hold on setting a minimum square footage which dwellings must have, should be left open as to the square footage. Square foot minimums of 480 to 650 have been proposed.

The county zoning ordinance now requires a minimum of 480 square feet of ground floor area, exclusive of unroofed porches, and garages, residential zoned areas. There is presently no minimum requirement for dwellings in the unzoned or M-3 zoned areas of the county.

PLANNING DIRECTOR Tyler Suess said the planning commission has had good luck with its 480 square foot minimum requirement in zoned areas. He noted that the zoning ordinance is flexible in that it provides that the minimum may be increased in any particular area.

The planning commission has already scheduled a hearing on setting a minimum county-wide requirement. Whatever the commission's recommendation may be to the board of supervisors, as a result of the hearing, the supervisors will hold their own hearing on the basis of an undefined minimum.

SUPERVISOR FRED McCall suggested that the mountain area be exempt from any minimum requirement, and Assistant Counsel James Angell said this could be done by setting the minimum for all areas under a certain elevation.

Florida Leads California in Campaign to Attract Visitors

Although more and more people each year have been "discovering" that California and its Desert Empire is a wonderful winter vacation and, Florida still holds an impressive lead in the actual numbers of visitors attracted, not only in winter but also in summer.

Travel statistics show that Florida leads California almost seven to one as the choice among Eastern winter vacationists, and more than three to one among Midwestern residents.

While it is apparent that Florida holds a considerable "edge" over California in being much closer to the populated area which produce the major crop of winter tourists, that factor alone is not sufficient reason for such a disparity in tourist totals in these days of rapid transportation when California is only a matter of several hours further in terms of time required to reach a selected destination.

The fact, is that for many years Florida has been doing a much more intensive, extensive and effective job of attracting tourists through advertising, publicizing and developing the many facets of winter visitor appeal than has the State of California including its counties and cities.

Only in comparatively recent years has California stepped up its efforts through organized campaigns designed to increase the number of year-round tourists and winter visitors to this State. Although we now have several large groups working on State regional levels in addition to county and local community efforts, principally through Chambers of Commerce, these practically all depend upon voluntary contributions and fall far short of the volume of expenditures provided through governmental subsidies and private commercial funds in Florida.

Like almost everything else, the volume of tourist travel attracted to a given area is largely in proportion to the amount of intelligent effort and appeal put forth. The substantial success reaped by Florida is an outstanding example. It definitely shows that if California, as a whole, and the desert region in particular, do a bigger and better job, increased numbers of vacations and visitors can be attracted here.

And how happy that would make our store and hotel owners.

The Perpetual Caucus

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rail-birds of the press gallery were calling Senator Proxmire's assault on Majority Leader Johnson the "second Farewell Address," George Washington's famous valedictory having been read a few minutes before in observance of his birthday.

One reporter was thinking as he listened to Proxmire's a passage in Jack Dempsey's autobiography, "The Old Manassas Mauler," once the proprietor of a Broadway restaurant, tells how night by night he had to be on guard against the boozed-up daredevils who like to boast they once hung a knock-down punch on the Champion.

THE SAME REPORTER was remembering a good many years ago when another new senator, Hubert Humphrey, threw a wild haymaker at another Champion — Senator Harry Byrd. It took Humphrey longer than he likes to recall to recover from that mistake and to be admitted to the closed fraternity of Senate leadership.

When you strike at a king, you must kill him. The young man from Wisconsin, intoxicated with the dizzy exuberance of a new six-year term, wasted his effort on the unresponsive air. When Senator Lyndon Johnson heard about it in his Texas retreat, he responded with wry amusement.

JOHNSON COULD recall that this is the same Senator Proxmire whom he greeted at the National Airport after the special Wisconsin election in the summer of 1957, the same one for whom he obtained a prized seat on the Agriculture Committee at the newcomer's earnest pleas, the same one for whom he arranged a junket to West Germany — home country of many Wisconsinites. Proxmire said "farewell" to any further favors from the Majority Leader, but that was not the sum of his leave-taking. The roll-call for final passage on Johnson's Rule 22 revision last January is regarded as the box score on the Majority Leader's party strength. On that show-down Johnson got 44 Democratic votes, while 19 of his Democratic colleagues voted against him.

THE FEELING IS that Proxmire has waved good-bye to those 43 Democrats who supported Johnson in the clutch. They now stand accused by the implications in Proxmire's speech as being follow-the-leader robots. Even among the 19 who opposed Johnson there are some very close Southern and Liberal friends who will not soon forgive the Wisconsin assailant. Proxmire is complaining—not without cause—that he addressed himself to the subject of the Democratic Caucus, and only secondarily to the Majority Leader. The brunt of his remarks was that since 1955—the year of Johnson's ascendancy to power—the Democratic Caucus has become merely a perfunctory get-together at the beginning of each session. Four times by unanimous vote the Democratic Senators have said in effect on all party matters: Leave it to Lyndon.

PROXMIRE'S DIRGE for the death of the Caucus, however, is premature and hyperbolic. While Johnson does not assemble the 64 Senate Democrats as a body, he holds almost as many huddles with teammates as Slingin' Sammy Baugh, the one-time Texas quarterback who later starred for the Washington Redskins. Johnson meets frequently with the committee chairmen. He attends common-interest meetings, such as those which bring together Senators interested in cotton, citrus fruit and reclamation, to mention some that I know of personally. Several times a week during the session, Johnson holds luncheons in his office where as many as 15 Democratic Senators chew legislative and party matters with their food.

ABOUT TWO YEARS ago I had the honor to attend such a luncheon, along with Columnist Bill White. Under the off-record rule, we heard plenty of give-and-take discussion, as well as an informal briefing by former Senator Walter George, then on special duty at the State Department.

Proxmire's notion that the Caucus is suspended between the openings of Congress does not describe the situation at all. It would be more truthful to say that the Caucus is in perpetual session with Lyndon Johnson as its strolling chairman. Even when temporarily apart from his Democratic mates, Johnson seems to speak for them, rather than for himself. I recall a solitary interview a while back in which I expressed some regret that the Majority Leader was supporting legislation for a Snake River dam.

"WELL, NOW," HE said, "you say you've been there and seen the site and that private industry is building all the dams we need in the Snake River canyon. I've never been there myself, but my Democratic colleagues in the Northwest tell me the Government had better build a high dam, so that's how I'm going to vote."

The Chairman was speaking for the Caucus. —Holmes Alexander

Gets Gray Cadillac
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The husband of actress Lyn Thomas says the only reason his estranged wife wanted a gray Cadillac along with $200 monthly alimony was because of the color. "I was perfectly willing to let her have a new white station wagon," architect Jules Salkin said. "But no, she wanted that Cadillac. Just because of the color."

A judge awarded her the Cadillac and alimony Thursday.

The Last Word

"I growled at it and it disappeared," Payne said.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Baron Eugen de Rothschild, of the European banking family, arrived in the Windy City Tuesday and expressed solicitude for those who greeted him.

"You have cold hands," he said. "You must all drink a glass of sherry."

Insurance Torchlights
WAYCROSS, Ga. — (UPI) — Burglars who apparently forgot their flashlight broke into an insurance firm here and searched the office using flaming insurance policies, police reported.

Power Takeoff
ELKADER, Iowa — (UPI) — George Hakert found out the hard way how well a grain elevator power takeoff device works.

It took off all his clothes, leaving only his hat, shoes and one shirt cuff.

Lady Bosses
DENVER (UPI) — Women will be bossing men outside the home, too, say business executives.

A panel of businessmen believes there will be such a shortage of men that lady bosses will be commonplace. The men based their prediction on projected statistics from the labor department.

To handle the shortage, women must be accepted as management trainees now, they added.

This Side of The Sun

By Phat

One man I know who is getting the chaff, is the honorable jurist, Roger A. Pfaff.

It just goes to show you that when your head sticks out above the others, it is an easier target.

NOW YOU TAKE Judge Pfaff of Los Angeles who for seven or eight years has been famed for his campaign to make our highways and streets safer.

He had a momentary lapse the other day—at least, so say two traffic police—and went through a 25-mile zone slightly in excess of that figure.

What happened? He got pinched. Even as you and I.

NOW THE POINT of this thesis is this.

If it had been you or I or Joe Doakes down the street, it wouldn't have stirred a ripple. If the event merited publicity at all it would have been buried in an obscure corner of some page with a minimum headline.

But because Judge Pfaff has for many years fought for obedience of traffic laws—and then became tangled up in them—he received maximum coverage. Well, that's the price of fame.

I'M FOR THE JUDGE. He is tough with traffic law violators and I believe earnestly that the only way to cut down the disgraceful record of California on the highways is to get tough.

They do it in other states and the results are amazing. So I sympathize with the judge who is speaking here tonight at a meeting of the local Safety Council.

If your head doesn't stick out above the crowd, you're no target.

BY THE WAY, you should attend that meeting of the Safety Council tonight, in the City Council Chambers.

Judge Pfaff has been interested in traffic safety for many years. Has written books on it after long study.

Don't let this one lapse deter you. Haven't you ever involuntarily transgressed on the State Motor Vehicle Code?

Oh, yeah?

PALM SPRINGS police have many problems and it some times takes much diplomacy to settle things amicably.

For instance, they got a call the other night. From a man who asked them to intervene in a dispute between himself and his wife's aunt.

"What is she doing?" police asked.

"Every time I stick my head out of the door, she's out there. Throwing rocks at me. Picks them up all day while I'm at work so she'll have a supply when I get home."

Police settled that one, too, although they admit that it is an uneasy truce.

OLD JOKES never die. They don't even fade away. Two months ago I swiped one from that little columnist's life-saver, the magazine "Quote" about the girl whose boy friend was wild-cattling for oil. She sent him a "get-well" card.

I've seen that one four times since and to top it off, Bennett Cerf used it last Sunday.

Oh, well, outside of "Quote," it was in The Sun first.

Busy Troubadador

STAN DELAPLANE'S Postcard

The new Nile Hilton opened in Cairo the other day. It was the anniversary of the United Arab Republic. And Marshal Tito was in town, cutting up touches with Nasser.

It took a little steam out of our opening. But we were loaded and gave the Yugoslav a good deal of competition.

WE FLEW INTO Cairo from New York on a chartered TWA Jetstream. It was late afternoon and the captain took a little sightseeing tour at 5000 feet.

We flew around the pyramids and took a quick look at the Sphinx.

Word got around that we were filled with Hollywood celebrities. And most of the crowd deserted Tito and came boiling out the desert road to see the girls.

THERE WERE several hundred black-uniformed police holding them back. But they surged against the line, crying:

"Jane Russell! Martha Hyer! Anne Jeffreys! Linda Cristal!"

They were all hep Egyptian cats and had been reading the fan magazines.

When the bus took off, they piled into cars and followed us into Cairo.

THEY HAD quite a system: One car would pull ahead, stop crosswise so that we were halted. Then the others would drive around and get ahead. They would slow up on either side as we came along the road. Then they would drive alongside until forced back by a narrowing of the highway.

Then a wild one would go screeching ahead and pull the same road block.

It took nearly two hours to drive the way that usually takes only half an hour.

THE ROOMS in the new $6,500,000 Nile Hilton are done in brown and beige. Beige walls and brown covering on the studio couches.

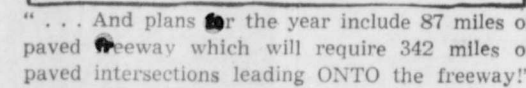

The hotel is a great 12-story curve of concrete and glass. All the rooms are balconied. The main entrance is glass and the second floor is one huge, mosaic-tile and Venetian glass mural.

EARL WILSON:

It's All Done With Mirrors

NEW YORK — Shari Lewis, the brainy 25-year-old TV redhead who discovered that even adult Wall Streeters like to watch playthings, was just waiting to be asked whether she was creating any new puppets.

"Uh huh! Just got these!" Plunging across the room to a black box, this five-foot, 90-pound female rocket, a professor's daughter, whisked out "Mi-mi-ow," a purplish cat, and then a tannish animal I didn't recognize—although he had a mustache and resembled a British Army officer.

"Isn't he a sweetie?" she demanded. "He's a walrus."

"No name yet," she added—after she'd quietly gone into her ventriloquist's routine. The walrus had demonstrated that he was bashful and couldn't pronounce my name. "I can't call him Si Beria, or Art Tick, or Al Alaska, or any of those horrible things. I have another one—a rabbit with a brogue."

"His name is Hop Scotch!" Shari, a New York-born triple-threat gal (dancer, singer, ventriloquist), is quitting her daily RCA-TV "Hi, Mom" show so she can burst forth upon the whole nation in a nighttime show.

"We have a slew of offers—just under a dozen." But the two new puppets may be introduced to the world when she is a guest star shortly for Pat Boone or Dinah Shore.

"This is really why I'm leaving the morning show—there's no time to develop new things," Shari said. "It takes hours of sitting in front of mirrors to get character to come out of puppets."

The fact that Sammy Davis Jr., Jerry Lewis, even Errol Flynn, stay up all night to catch her working with puppets "Lamb Chop" and "Charlie Horse," wasn't enough to keep her on the daily morning schedule.

"You're cheating on your husband," she explained. "Mine"—TV producer Jeremy Tarcher, to whom she's been married 11 months—"is an angel. He gets up at 6 and comes to the studio with me. We can't go to the theater and stay because at 10 o'clock at night I'm as limp as a dishrag and probably asleep on his shoulder."

It's partly because of Dr. Abraham B. Hurwitz, professor of child guidance at Yeshiva University and a magician—that Shari's done so brilliantly in the field of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy.

"He's my dad," she said. "While I was dancing, I broke my ankle. He was trying to take my mind off of that and he brought me a couple of books on ventriloquism."

Sixteen then, and already graduated from the High School of Performing Arts (she had skipped four grades and was one of the IGC's or "Intellectually Gifted Children"), Shari found that she was a natural-born voice-thriller.

Experts say you can't see her lips move.

"I don't move a muscle but I don't think that's the most important part. That would be like talking about a dancer's legs. Gwen Verdon's got crazy legs, but how she dances! Edgar Bergen may move his lips but Charlie McCarthy is a human being."

Thus she's enamored of a letter from Burr Tillstrom pledging undying love to "Lamb Chop" and "Charlie Horse." On a recent trip to London and Paris, Shari and her husband went puppet-hunting.

"In Paris we saw a French puppet called Mimi. It occurred to my husband that there could be a cat puppet called Mi-mi-ow." Smiling, Shari added, "We travel and see nothing but puts."

Shari's first program was intended to be a baby-sitting spot but she found adults writing fan letters.

"The kids love the puppets, but we also use hip jokes that may float over their heads and get the adults. Such as in 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs,' when the Queen asks the mirror, 'Who is the prettiest of them all?' and the mirror says, 'Snow White is—but that's no reflection on you.'"

YIPES—ANOTHER one! It's MGM-TV's "Guns West" series, starring Wayne Morris and Jim Westerfield, and the cameras start shootin' the shootin' duo this week.

Liberace and the singer on his show, Dick Roman, came up with something new. Both got crew haircuts. . . . And that ain't all! Tom Waldman, who writes the show, got one, too.

MIKE CONNOLLY:

'The Christian Spirit'

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's movie studios are processing their own color films, traditionally the job of Technicolor until the studios decided they could do it cheaper themselves. So Technicolor is getting even with the studios by producing its own movie. It will be "The Son of Man," in direct competition with 20th-Fox's film based on the life of Jesus Christ, "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

C'mon, you guys is this the Christian spirit? . . . And please, you fellows who've been flooding me with mail about playing the part of Christ in the Fox picture, don't write me, wire George Stevens, 20th Century-Fox, Beverly Hills.

I GUESS THE most frightening example of the Electronic Age and its consequences is the story told by Carmen Phillips, the funny gal who plays Shirley MacLaine's floozy sidekick in "Some Came Running." The horn on her car refused to work so Carmen drove it to a garage. And this was the sign on the door: "Stop—Automatic Door—Sound Your Horn!"

Add Electronics: Walt Disney tells me his newest ride at Disneyland, the now-capped Matterhorn Mountain, will have an electric-elevator inside.

"But you'll never use it," Walt said, "because you'll be too busy racing down the side of the mountain in a bobbed!" P.S.: Walt means none of his customers will be sparking the Down beam, just the Up.

Success (as defined by a brand-new Hollywood star who shall be nameless): "Being bored by the people who once snubbed you."

GEORGE CUKOR is coaxing Shirley Booth to star in "The Friday Girl," movie version of a magazine story about a twice-a-week cleanup maid who cupid two of her clients into that closeup clinch just before "The End" flashes on the screen. Sort of a mop-and-dustrag version of Broadway's "Bells Are Ringing," in which a phone-answering-service gal plays Cupid to her customers.

Phil Yordan is yoking Robert Ryan and Tina Louise, who did so well in "God's Little Acre," in another Erskine Caldwell caper, "The Sure Hand of God," for Columbia Pictures.

SILENT SCREEN star, Irene Rich, widow'd with the passing of George Clifford last month, is leaving for an indefinite stay in Europe with her daughter Frances.

Charles Schnee quit his producer's post at Columbia ("Too many headaches trying to cast those big-money-making stars!") and goes back to his first love—screenwriting. Charlie, who wrote "The Bad and the Beautiful" at Metro a few years ago, moves over to Warner Bros. to write "The Crowded Sky." He'll receive $100,000 for his filmization of Hank Searles' novel of the same name.

John Wayne is winging in to play the commercial pilot and Jim Garner will be the Navy jet pilot—on the two planes that crash in that "crowded sky."

CHANNEL CHATTER — Westerns, gallopers, oaters—call 'em what you will—we're being flooded with them. Joel McCrea is the latest to ride thataway. A TV holdout till now, Joel sold his series, Whitchia Town to NBC-TV, without even shooting a pilot film—the usual procedure.

It's a father-son show co-starring Joel's own son, Jody? Have another one: Goodman-Todson signed Nick Adams to play the part of "Johnny Yuma" in the Rebel, Nick's character will be based on that of his own personal acting idol, the late Jimmy Dean. This series will spotlight Nick as a teenager in the Old West.

AND TWO MORE: Virginia City, Collier Young's new series about Mark Twain's newspapering days in the Nevada bonanza city, and Bonanza, NBC-TV version of the same public domain property.

And another: Ida Lupino and Howard Duff will produce The Powder River Boys. But the husband-&-wife team won't appear in it.

TV actress Yvette Vickers tells me she met a brave, honorable actor: he gave up looking in mirrors for Lent!

Oh, before I forget—MGM-TV is in the horse opera race too. It's new sagebrush series will be titled The Wrangler.

THE BOYS ON TV Row are really getting desperate for new ideas for their shows. Fox-TV gave the all-clear to make one based on Fox's "South Pacific," to be titled guess-what—South Pacific! Ronnie Knox has already teletested for the role of "Lieut. Cable" (who will NOT die in the series as he did in the stage musical and movie!)—wearing as little as the law and the lensers would allow in order to show off his muscles.

Revue Productions, also on the prowl for something new, offered Fred MacMurray the starring spot in its new River Boat series. It flipped for it but turned it down because: "I'm not interested in starring in every segment of a series. I wouldn't mind hosting an anthology series and starring in some of them but I'm not about to commit person and professional suicide in appearing on the tube one hour a week every week!"

IT'S LACK OF HUNGER SAYS SCHACHT

Today's Ball Players Having it Too Easy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Al Schacht, the beef and baseball man, moaned today that the biggest trouble with the current crop of diamond stars is that they aren't "hungry" enough.

Yanks to Battle East Germans in World Hockey

—Buoyed by a runaway victory in the opening round, the United States amateur ice hockey team faced East Germany today in the world championship tournament while defending champion Canada met Switzerland.

Tom Williams of Duluth, Minn., scored four goals in leading the Yanks to a 10-3 triumph over Norway Thursday night. The Canadians were equally impressive in their opener as they blanked Poland, 9-0.

Today's U.S.-East German contest had slight political overtones. An East German team recently was refused visas when it attempted to compete in a pre-Olympic ski meet at Squaw Valley, and a bitter campaign against the decision is still being conducted in the East German press.

If the Yanks and Canadians come through as expected today they will clinch berths in the final round-robin tournament, which will get underway here next Monday with a reduced field of six teams.

Machen Winner in Comeback Battle

Filly Threat In Rich Santa Anita Derby

Field of Twelve
Seeks $100,000
Prize Tomorrow

ARCADIA (UPI) — C. V. Whitney's brilliant and undefeated Silver Spoon today was set to challenge the jinx in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby that was broken only once by a filly winning the race.

When entries were taken 48 hours in advance for Saturday's mile and an eighth race, a field of 12 was named. Three of the dozen, including Silver Spoon, are supplementary nominees and if all 12 start, the race will have a value of $150,300.

WITH FIRST LANDING having lost some of its prestige in the Flamingo Stakes last week, the Santa Anita Derby was being watched closely by horsemen for possible Kentucky Derby threats.

And there were several that could offer an argument at Churchill Downs May 2, including the colt that didn't make Saturday's race because of injuries, Tommy Lee.

Neil S. McCarthy's entry of Ole Fols and Finnegan probably will be favored, both horses having beaten Tommy Lee at the meet. Ole Fols is the speed horse while Finnegan is the stretch runner.

SILVER SPOON goes coupled with Jungle Dancer in the race while a third twosome is composed of Fighthin Indian and Prince Lewker.

The horses given the best chance of breaking in on the McCarthy Entry and Silver Spoon in the battle for part of the purse were Royal Orbit and Linnold.

The rest of the field was made up of Friar Roach, Die Hard, Mr. Deep Well and Tulac.

ALL COLTS and geldings carry 118 pounds in the race with Silver Spoon getting a five pound sex allowance.

In Thursday's $15,000 Swaps Purse, Twentyone Guns moved up steadily on the outside, nailed the pace-setters in the stretch and drew out to a three-length victory under the clever handling of jockey George Taniguchi. The winner raced the mile and a sixteenth in 1:42 3/5 and returned $9.90.

Laurye's Upset by Stables

Gain Tie for First Place in Loop, 49 to 43

Smoke Tree Stables upset the favored Laurye's Steak Ranch last night in the final game of the regular schedule of the City Basketball League 49 to 43 and threw the loop into a snarl, each team now having won 13 and lost 2.

The championship will be decided later, whether to stage a play off or recognize the protest of Laurye's against a defeat charged to them vis default. Manager Jim Schilling of Laurye's has protested the default decision and demanded a play-off. The disputed game was in the first round with Mazzulla Masonry. Laurye's claims they were not notified of a change in schedule in time to field a team.

LAST NIGHT O. B. Crawford and Sam Jones paced the winning Stables outfit with 11 and 10 points and Ralph Hanes was high for Laurye's with 11.

The first half last night ended with Smoke Tree leading 28 to 24 and the teams fought on an even basis in the third period.

In the fourth the Stables added two to their lead to win 49-43.

IT WAS THE first game Laurye's Steak Ranch had lost on the floor in actual play in two years.

SACRAMENTO WINTER VISITOR SINKS HOLE-IN-ONE ON O'DONNELL SEVENTH

The ball rolled true into the cup for a hole-in-one.

It was Dr. Gray's first and also his full 18 round was the best he ever shot—a 72.

Dr. Gray was playing with his friend, L. V. Dana also of Sacramento and also a winter visitor here.

Dodgers, Yanks Plan Campanella Benefit

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —

Partially-paralyzed Roy Campanella may realize between $65,000 and $150,000 from a benefit exhibition game which the Los Angeles Dodgers will play the New York Yankees on May 7.

The Dodgers announced Thursday that they will turn over their share of the receipts to the ex-Dodger catcher, who was injured in an automobile accident in January, 1953. A conservative early estimate of a crowd of 40,000 for the night game in Los Angeles Coliseum would make the Dodgers' share about $65,000.

Dodger President Walter O'Malley said the team will also play an exhibition game in Yankee Stadium in 1960.

Campanella, who said he would turn over a portion of the receipts to various youth organizations and charities, thanked O'Malley and his ex-teammates for "the greatest thing that is possible to happen to me or for me."

The Dodgers are scheduled to play a regular National League game at San Francisco the afternoon of May 7 and will fly to Los Angeles immediately after that game for the benefit contest. They will return to San Francisco the next day to complete the Giants' series.

O'Malley said "this game has the potentials of being the best attended in baseball history."

Ground has been dedicated in the memory of George Martin Schmoll for the establishment of the Temple of Life, to be located on the Schmoll Ranch site on Bolen Road in Anza.

Since coming to the valley 16 years ago, aside from maintaining the 40-acre ranch, Mr. Schmoll was employed at the Desert Magazine in Palm Desert. It has always been Mr. and Mrs. Schmoll's dream to establish a permanent place of service for humanity. At his death last December, his wife, Marguerite, set aside part of the high desert estate for the purpose of building a living memorial.

Reverends Amad and Irene McCaulou, missionaries and private counselors from Los Angeles will conduct open-air services at the Schmoll Ranch beginning Easter Sunday at sunrise. Other services will be held at the regular March is with us, the sun has a longer orbit, thermometers creep up to the nineties. The weather is wonderful but the amateur gardener's water bills will also creep up month by month until it attains its maximum in early September.

To those who purchased and planted bare-root roses a month ago we would suggest they give them their first feeding as the root system should, by now, be strong enough to assimilate the food and start giving us roses galore.

DIG A NARROW trench about four inches away from and circling the bud-union which should not be entirely covered. The trench should not be more than an inch and a half deep so that the nitrogen and other food will slowly seep through to the new root system. We have found that a very iron sulphate (obtainable in local light sprinkling of iron or even nurseries) is helpful in strengthening the plant.

An inch of wetted peat moss on the surface will retard evaporation and lessen the water bills. As the rose gets older its root system spreads and tender root fill the bed almost to the surface. With this in mind do not be too liberal in the use of trowels or other gardening instruments or you might injure nature's below-soil ha-dwork and later grumble because your roses are not up to the standard of those of your neighbor.

FEEDING PERIODS should be about a month apart. In other locations where the soil is heavy gardeners are in the habit of feeding rose bushes every two months or even three. Their water and nutrition does not leach through as quickly as ours do.

Another aid to the growth of roses is found in cutting them off the mother plant as soon as the petals fall off or cut the rose as the bud begins to open. If your rose garden is in full sun at all times you should have roses earlier than those who have shade over them. However, all things equal, people with a shade are liable to enjoy larger and firmer roses later in the year, a fifty-fifty condition.

THE LANDSCAPING around our City Hall is gradually becoming a horticultural picture that will be more than a credit to the city manager, the mayor, the council, the architect and especially the landscaper—in this we should include the taxpayer.

That tree you see on the south side of City Hall is more or less a stranger and claims to be drought resistant. When in full bloom it has large, yellow flowers and leaves similar to those of a poplar. They claim it is related to the hibiscus family, can be grown as a small tree or a shrub and is named "Portia." Those who remember their Shakespeare will harken back to his Merchant of Venice and the lady lawyer.

YOU SHOULD PAY a visit to the City Hall, take a look at the Natal Plum, the Xylosma, and other plants. All in all, the grounds' tout-ensemble looks like the work of a local nurseryman who has been in the desert more than 40 years. We will soon find out.

Now is the time to get busy with that large can of Chlordane or other good ant killer. Don't worry too much about the stragglers, follow their trail until you come to the nest and be liberal with the insecticide in and around the hole. Do not be too discouraged because they appear to be alive too long; the next day they will have disappeared, but keep your eyes open for newcomers and treat them the same way. This time of the year the ant family is really busy.—T.G.M.

CARL C. ERNST, president of California Electric Power Co., reported continued growth of the utility during 1958 at its annual meeting of employees in San Bernardino. More than 500 employees from communities throughout Southern California were present. Ernst told the group that the company retained its position as one of the nation's fastest-growing utilities, and disclosed plans for meeting increased power demands.

RATED A VALUABLE aid in home protection against prowlers and thieves while the family is on vacation is this small, portable electric timer made by the International Register Co., Chicago. Called the Time-All, it turns lights on and off every night just as if the family were there. Some families carry the lighting deception a little further by using two timers—one controlling a living room lamp, and the other a bedroom light—to create the impression of movement.

GETTING IN THE MOOD for the "Afternoon in Hawaii" fashion show and luau luncheon at Oasis Hotel tomorrow, are Peggy Paul and Barbara Foster, who will model in the show. Here they are wearing outfits from the Beachcomber shops, which are sponsoring the show. George Kainapau and Tani Marsh are on the program and the luncheon is to be Trader Vic-inspired. (Pospel Photo)

Service Worker To Speak at Potluck Luncheon

"The Joy of Abundant Living" will be the topic of the speech that Mrs. King C. Light will bring to the Women's Association of the Palm Springs Community Church on Tuesday, March 10, when they meet at 12:30 in the social hall for a salad-dessert pot luck luncheon.

Mrs. Light comes from Long Beach and is continually in demand as a speaker throughout Southern California, appearing before church organizations as well as civic and community groups. Her activities in Y.W.C.A., Community Chest, Red Cross and the Heart Association are well known.

Her business contact as hostess for a firm maintaining a Garden Room where various groups are entertained free of charge, gives Mrs. Light a wide opportunity to work with people. This is her greatest interest.

This is her second speaking engagement in the church and her listeners remember the spiritual challenge and great inspiration of her talks. Her keen wit and humor are ever present and endear her to youth and adult alike.

Mrs. Ross Blumling, program chairman, will introduce the speaker and especially urges all women of this area to attend. Association president, Mrs. James Carlisle, has appointed the ladies of the Martha Circle with Mrs. Henry Passow their chairman as the hostess circle.

Guests are asked to bring either a salad or dessert to share and their own table service.

It will be slightly western out tonight... as this is the night you get out your cowboy clothes and head for the Ranch Club... where the Clarks are staging a western dinner dance (shades of the Old West!) with a chuckwagon... and western music and entertainment... There will be prizes for the best costumes... but they'll let you in to join in the fun... even if you arrive in a dinner jacket... This western party is an annual affair... but there are some new tricks this year... like those carved caricatures... Tonight too... Elsa and Bill Bassichis will be hosting a small dinner at the Racquet Club... which is one of a series...

One of the pleasantest afternoons of the winter season... is always that "Afternoon in Hawaii" at Oasis... which is tomorrow... It's a combination of mid day luau (Trader Vic style) and a style show of Island wear... that fits in so well with resort sun wear... or as luau costumes...

George Kainapau will be there to sing... and Tani Marsh to dance... and it's a perfect setting with a mountain backdrop... If you can still get a reservation... this is something you'll enjoy...

Maury and Louise Horner... who are off soon on a trip to the Orient... started out to have a small family group and a few friends in for a farewell drink and to help celebrate her birthday Wednesday... but they wound up with around 42 guests at their annual "toothpick dinner"...

We missed the buffet... because we had to hurry on to another party (sound familiar?)... but previewed the birthday cake... which had golfers on it besides the usual rose decorations...

It was cooler that evening... but pleasant out beside the pool... Chatted with Marie and Ash Levy... who had planned a trip to the Orient last year and had to give it up... Now they have decided they will go in June...

Said "happy birthday" to Alfred Strauss... whose birthday was the following day... This Grand Old Man of the medical profession... who says he feels as young and fit today as he did 20 years ago... claims he flipped a coin with Jack Benny... and he's 39... and Jack admits to 40...

Dr. Alfred says maybe his secret is that he only works nine months of the year... and never worries... I think his kindly thoughts and all the good work he has done for others... including years of cancer research... has more than earned him a long and happy life...

The Strauss' daughter and son-in-law Marge and Paul Friedlander are here from Seattle to help celebrate...

Over on Stephens Road the party was in full swing... when we reached Hazel (Mrs. Frank Russell) Payne's charming home... and only the Gabors arrived later than we did...

Jan King was there (she returned from Sioux City last week... flying in with Ginny Simms... who had just closed her nightclub tour in Omaha... where they loved her)... Dora Clarke (just three weeks out of the hospital) was there with Elaine Childs Elser... the Leonard Murchisons and their guest Mrs. Verne Reider of Indianapolis... Col. and Mrs. Edward Banning (found out she just had an eye operation)... Mary Bedford... Jones, Millie Eisenman, and her houseguest Aline Allison of Cleveland, the Collis Steeres, Dorothy Hoover... Mrs. Martin Wade (she was home sick)... Bob Taliaferro, George Shaw and Tom Powers... Jolie Gabor and her husband Edmund DeSizetti and Magda and Tony Galucci...

Pat Barbara and his combo occupied one corner of the living-room and filled the evening with music...

The amazing thing about the beautiful buffet... with its ham and turkey and lobster mousse... salads and hot rolls... with a choice of strawberry-topped cheesecake or coffee mousse for dessert... wasn't how good it

Host Dinner

The Herbert Shaws of Palm Desert hosted a small dinner party at Shadow Mountain Club, with Dr. and Mrs. William Seals and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen of Palm Desert and Oklahoma, as their guests.

Allan Jones to Sing at WAIF Ball

Headlining the program for the WAIF Ball at El Mirador on March 14, will be the popular singer, Allen Jones, it was announced this week by Ball chairman Mrs. William B. Malouf. The long-time favorite of stage and screen and former home owner here, has just acquired a new home and he and his wife Mary will be making this their winter retreat.

Jones made his American debut as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, after years of study abroad. He then branched into the field that has made him so successful—operetta. He has appeared in "Student Prince," "Blossom Time," and sang opposite Mary Martin in "The Life of Victor Herbert"; with Irene Dunne in "Show Boat," and co-starred with Jeanette MacDonald in "The Firefly."

Starting as a coal miner in Pennsylvania at 58 cents an hour, he has come a long way, and has given a Command Performance before the Queen of England.

This year's WAIF ball will be the "Emerald Ball," keynoted by elegance in every way, from the beautiful gowns always worn by the feminine guests, to the outstanding decorations to be previewed that evening.

Mrs. Kenneth Kirk, president of Palm Springs chapter of WAIF, has been commuting here each week from her Beverly Hills home, to assist in plans for the coming Ball.

Jane Russell, founder of WAIF and national president of the organization in Hollywood, is to fly here directly from Cairo, where she is attending the opening ceremonies for the Nile Hilton hotel. She will have as her Ball guests Rhonda Fleming and Esther Williams among other Hollywood personalities.

ALLAN JONES of stage and films, will sing on the program being arranged for the WAIF Ball at El Mirador on March 14.

Soroptimists Hear About Idyllwild Institute-Fiesta

"Institute Fiesta" (study and fun) and the programs offered for the 1950 season were described by Ann Lay, president of Idyllwild Institute-Fiesta Club to the Soroptimist Club of Palm Springs at Tuesday's luncheon at Biltmore Hotel.

Idyllwild Institute-Fiesta, established in 1933, a foundation sponsored by statewide membership of organization women, is a cultural center for women. Mrs. Lay illustrated her lecture with colored slides showing the Lodge which is located 1/2 mile from downtown Idyllwild on eight beautifully wooded acres, and classes in progress.

"Beginning June 21 and ending Labor Day, weekly classes will be available to those interested in organization leadership," Mrs. Lay stated. "In addition to work sessions and lectures there will be planned recreational activities and classes in Arts and Crafts taught by experienced teachers."

Aurora Burke of the Soroptimist Club of Indio, Mary Yorke of the newly-organized Soroptimist Club of Gardena, Marfan Orsi of Forestville, California, Florence Freeman of McCall, Idaho, and Martha Scott (who was celebrating her birthday) were guests at the luncheon.

President Elsa Adde announced a meeting of the board of directors will be held at her home at 8 p. m. on March 16.

Millers Host Houseguests On Weekend

The George Millers entertained their houseguests, their daughter Rev's Cosley, Larry Sprague of Corona Del Mar, and the Robert Connells (he's an investment analyst of Los Angeles), and a group of local friends at a poolside cocktail hour at their home on May Drive, followed by dinner at the Chi Chi.

It was a full weekend for the Millers and their daughter, who attended the Charles Beckers' Racquet Club dinner on Friday night; entertained at Western Hills on Saturday night; and on Sunday attended the opening of the Bermuda Dunes Golf Club.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Gets Under Way Tomorrow

Girls scurrying around town these next few weeks wearing green and brown uniforms and carrying boxes, will mean the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale is in progress, and desserts will have an especially good flavor soon. The sale will begin March 7 and end March 25.

The girls will have two choices to offer again — a creme filled sandwich and a mint flavored cookie. Either box will sell for 50 cents, with a portion of that money going to each troop and a percentage going to our newly formed Desert Sky Council. Mrs. Hugh Drury and Mrs. Lester Tison are general chairmen for the Cookie Drive.

The following are the chairmen for their districts: Mrs. Glen Reynolds, Cherry Valley; Mrs. Hale McClellan, Banning; Mrs. Hugh Green, Desert Hot Springs; Mrs. Thomas Killfole, Cathedral City; Mrs. Charles McDonald and Mrs. J. Bud Morris, Palm Springs; Mrs. Carl Davis, Eagle Mountain; Mrs. Edard Ruge, Palm Desert; Mrs. M. G. Hamilton, Coachella; Mrs. Glenn Coleman and Mrs. Bud Estey, Indio.

Antique Hunters Searching for Something Different

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — UPI — There's something new in the business of collecting the old.

Today's antiquers are concentrating on the "different" finds — from suits of armor to totem poles — which make better conversation pieces in the home than collectors of old porcelain or glass, even if they are not as valuable.

Take time to browse New York's Second and Third avenues, where every other shop seems to deal in some phase of antiquity. It is amazing what has been emptied from attics to fill store windows.

There are those suits of armor, handed down from heaven-knows-whose militant ancestor; old diving helmets; gaming devices; cigar store Indians; weathervanes; coffee mills; churns; wooden well-buckets; bird houses whittled by some patient early settler; hunting decoys; whirligigs which once decorated fence posts; figureheads from old sailing vessels; shopkeepers' signs or plaques saying "Stage Coach Stops Here"; landscapes and portraits done by itinerant artists, the results now called "primitives," and even "wanted" posters from pre-FBI days offering $50 reward for horse thieves dead or alive.

"People buy for fun, no longer for investment," said Henry Cogger, a native of Jonesboro, Ark., who, with his partner, John Bihler, formerly of Chicago, runs a well-cluttered hangout for collectors of the unusual.

Cogger figures there are three basic reasons for the changing taste of antiques collectors. They no longer can afford the servants to help clean elegant collections of old glass, china and figurines; have no room to display such collections; and no longer are interested in gathering together the traditional.

"It's the desire to be different," said Cogger, whose personal collection leans to Americana. "The same motivation started women on the wig fad."

Cogger and Bihler do most of their antiques hunting at antique fairs—"the nation's attics long since have been emptied," said Cogger. They will attend and exhibit at 25 to 30 shows a year, including the giant fair scheduled for the New York Coliseum March 7-15.

"There is a real shortage of antiques," said Cogger, "and in all fields from fine old European furniture to early American cookie boards."

"It will only get worse. In our present world of mass production, there is so little made which can stand the test of time."

Honeys Host Luncheon Group

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Honey entertained at a delightful luncheon at their Vereda Norte home, which was a farewell party for Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurah who were returning to their home in Victoria, B. C. after a visit in Palm Springs. It also celebrated the birthday of Mildred E. Jackson.

BUBBLING FRANK DAY, the musician's disk jockey, talks about a brand-new album with a Palm Springs setting with Tom Powers of the Bonaires. The album—title "For You From Palm Springs—By the Bonaires"—sets the quartet against a 2-piece orchestra conducted by Bernie Lewis. The Bonaires first performed in Palm Springs for the Hat Parade Luncheon, then returned for a New Year's Eve show at the Thunderbird. Day, genial and effervescent on the air, predicted a return of "good music" after hearing the new LP. (Desert Sun Photo).

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: I did a terrible thing but what is done is done and I want to know what to do now. Our Church Auxiliary had a Bake Sale and we agreed that there would be no "mixes" used. I was in a hurry that morning and used a mix, but I made my own frosting (caramel). Everyone raved over my cake and they are all asking me for the recipe. I can't tell them it is a mix without looking like a fool. Should I find a regular white cake recipe in any old cookbook and give it to them or what?

DEAR TROUBLED: Admit that you used a mix for the cake but give them the recipe for your frosting. You will make a lot of women happy by proving that you don't have to beat up your own batter to make it better.

DEAR ABBY: Can blushing be cured and if so, how? I work in an office and for almost no reason at all I blush like the setting sun when I laugh or when I am just a little bit uncomfortable. This awful blushing gives me away and I feel like crawling into a hole. Please, Abby, try to help me.

DEAR REDHEAD: You blushers would blush even a deeper hue to know how refreshing it is to see a girl who can still blush. Get over the idea that it's something to be ashamed of and enjoy your individuality.

DEAR ABBY: I divorced my husband six years ago after I caught him giving our baby liquor in one of his bottles. I took the baby and left everything behind. Even my rings. I refused his support and went to work and got along nicely. Last week his sister called me and told me that my "ex" wanted to see me and the baby. She said he's joined "A.A." and had not had a drink in 3 years. My family says I'd be crazy to see him again. Mabe someone reading this has had experience with an alcoholic. Do they ever really change? Please help me decide what to do.

DEAR ONCE: I would certainly see him and give him a chance to prove he has changed. If he had the stuff to stick with "A.A." for 3 years, he has probably learned his lesson.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe it's just my age, but I have become aware that my memory isn't as good as it used to be. I can't remember telephone numbers or addresses and sometimes important names escape me. Is this normal for people around fifty and is there anything I can do about it?

DEAR FORGETFUL: It's normal, so don't worry about it. A short pencil is better than a long memory.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder do teen-agers realize that when they hold up a telephone line for needless re-hashing of boy friends, clothes and other nonsense, a life may be at stake? The teenagers have tied up our telephone circuit so completely that it is often impossible to reach a whole section

... by Abigail VanBuren

REGISTERED NURSE
DEAR NURSE: I agree that there is a lot of idle chatter on the wires by both teen-agers and adults, but all one needs to do in order to put through an "emergency call" is to ask for the telephone supervisor.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LIVING WITH A DEVIL": Your man has become spiritually unbuttoned. You'll button him up faster with the help of your pastor.
